- The flat rack (with collapsible walls at the front and back but open on the sides)
- The platform (a flat rack with no walls).

Our Projects

Fragile Goods

Fragile cargo is classified as four types: Solid items (i.e. glassware, chinaware, TV tubes) Solid items containing normal liquids (i.e bottles of shampoo) Solid items containing dangerous or expensive liquids (i.e. bottles of alcohol, paints, perfumes) Bulky and easily damaged aircraft components (i.e. flaps, ailerons, elevators).

Reefer Cargo

JSK Logistics has developed special methods and time-sensitive techniques to handle items subject to decay, deterioration or decomposition. Such commodities will typically include dairy products, meats, deep frozen products, fish, fruits and vegetables, plants, flower bulbs, serum and vaccines. Whenever we are assigned to handle perishables, we create a special cargo-handling plan. This includes an in-depth analysis of government requirements at the destination market to reduce delay and risk.
